1. The incorporation of essential material in the specification by reference to an unpublished U.S. application, foreign application or patent, or to a publication is improper. Applicant is required to amend the disclosure to include the material incorporated by reference, if the material is relied upon to overcome any objection, rejection, or other requirement imposed by the Office. The amendment must be accompanied by a statement executed by the applicant, or a practitioner representing the applicant, stating that the material being inserted is the material previously incorporated by reference and that the amendment contains no new matter. 37 CFR 1.57(f).

The specification incorporates Australian Patent 692835 by reference. In addition, this appears to be the acceptance number, not the document number.

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the screen of claim 8 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

3. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The structure of the apparatus should be clarified, and functional language replaced by structure or proper means-plus-function language. For example, in claim 1, the location of the seat should be clarified with respect to the flow path and the primary chamber; and the connection between the primary and secondary chambers should be explicitly recited. Due to the recitation of a catchment area in claims 2 and 3, it is unclear as to whether the catchment area is recited in combination with the diverter and collection system or not. In claim 5, the language of addition of float balls is functional.

4. Claims 1-9 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

The recitation of a first flush rainwater diverter comprising a T-piece connected to a rainwater flow path with a fall pipe having a float and a seat for sealing the fall pipe from the flow path when the rainwater reaches a predetermined level, where the fall pipe extends into a primary storage chamber which is connected to a secondary storage chamber with an overflow and an outlet through a flow regulator patentably distinguishes over the prior art of record.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Van Benthuisen, Hart, Wallis and Japanese patent 9-41429 each disclose rainwater diversion and collection systems having a float for cutting off flow into a primary collection chamber at a predetermined level, but the primary chambers are not connected to a the secondary chamber, rather, the systems direct water into the secondary chamber from the flow path when the float is actuated. Japanese patent 10-88629 discloses a float operated rainwater collection system. Other devices for collecting and diverting rainwater without a float are disclosed by Rosebrock, Monteith, Pank, Cousino, Greene and Kizhnerman. Soderstrom discloses a multi chamber settling tank for water re-use.
